

2010 China Medical Board Distinguished Professors
2010 美国中华医学基金会杰出教授

Yan Hong

Yan Hong is a Professor in Epidemiology and Biostatistics, Dean of Xi'an Jiaotong University College of Medicine, and President of Chinese Health Statistics Association. He has focused his research on rural health, maternal and child health care for more than 25 years, and has made a significant contribution to the prevention of early neonatal death. With CMB support, he set up a pilot study of the Master's of Public Health (MPH) education program in 1998, and he is now leading an effort for the establishment of the first training program leading to the Doctor of Public Health degree in China.
